

be on the lookout as reports of human bones have been spotted, thrown down the ancient pits: within it.

cannibal Bite marks from the cannibal have been located on the targets' bones by top-class detectives, suggesting that this monster has a liking for human flesh. "No case has ever looked so brutal to the victims! This (by far) is the hardest case but we will try our best to protect and serve this small village!" stated detective Jones (age 41), once called in.

An eyewitness of this attack (Franky Frilligan, a pensioner) has claimed to have been a target of this case. At 12pm last Tuesday, his family heirloom had been stolen and after it had been broken into. That axe was my skinning heirloom that had been passed down through generations. I beg this wild boy to return my axe as it was a part of me!

commented Franky Frilligan (age 67). He had confirmed that his shed had never been broken into before.

so it was a horrid surprise and shock that the axe was stolen from within it.

A senior bully, who wishes not to be named, has been a victim of one of the Savage's attacks. "I went into the woods and as soon as my presence was felt, a wild aura could be sensed. He was watching from within a bush that flushed when he took a breath" he said as he scanned the room, making sure no-one else was watching. This had been a stalking incident that ended up with an assault. He said that he had never been so scared in his life.

Last week, a strange meeting with the Savage involved the Stokes's pig Paturia. "It was so strange! My poor Paturia was being ridden by a skinny young boy who looked like he was waiting around an axe!" bawled Mrs Stokes (age 54). She stated that he did no harm to Paturia, looked as if she enjoyed being used like a horse.

No harm has been done except for the fact that the Stokes pig has lost control of itself for the next few days.

Police are taking action as swiftly as possible and they hope to make an arrest soon. Any crime committed must be reported to the police no-matter how big or small so that they can further in the situation.

Police stations have announced that they urge everybody to stay safe and only leave their homes if it is an emergency.

An engaging and informative article on the strange and worrying events in Saltwell.

Concluding paragraph

Saltwell is on the edge of disaster so any crimes must be reported, no matter the size. Who will be his next victim? This is the question we all ask. At the moment, police are taking action but cannot further in the case until they have more clues to show them where he may slumber. Is Saltwell on the brink of extinction?
